

PAST Foundation 2005

Middle Island Field School

The PAST Foundation will host its Middle Island Life Saving Station Field School from Monday, July 11, through Friday, July 22, 2005. This is a terrestrial archaeology project. Students (young and old alike!) should plan to arrive no later than July 10. For those traveling cross country by air, plan to arrive at the Detroit airport by no later than 3:00 pm on July 10 to meet a group van that will transport you to Alpena. The field school will be based at Alpena, Michigan, and travel to the archaeological site on nearby Middle Island daily. The cost of the field school is US$800 per participant. Participants will be responsible for all travel costs to and from the school. The field school will provide lodging, meals and transportation for field school activities.

The field school will be under the direction of Wayne Lusardi, Maritime Archaeologist at the Thunder Bay National Marine Sanctuary and Underwater Preserve, and Andrew Weir of Commonwealth Cultural Resources Group. The field school will teach basic terrestrial site documentation techniques and explore how archaeological information is used to understand the physical evolution of the site during its history, the activities undertaken by station crew members, and how the site has changed since its abandonment in the 1950s.

Enrolled participants will receive a packet of information regarding pre-field school reading and necessary equipment. For further information, contact annalies@pastfoundation.org. Applicants should complete this application and fax or mail it, along with a clear photocopy of their ID and medical insurance card. Payment in full for participation is due no later than July 1, 2005 to hold a spot in the field school.
